Report on Orientation Session on

'Architecture of Amending Power and Basic Structure Constitutionalism'

Date- 18th February, 2023

The Centre for Advanced Legal Research and Training intends to introduce the course on ' 'Architecture of Amending Power and Basic Structure Constitutionalism '. To discuss in detail course contents and the importance of the course, the orientation session was organized on 15th February, 2023. The orientation session was conducted by Dr. Sanjay Jain, Professor of National Law School of India University, Bengaluru. This report summarizes the key points discussed during the orientation session on "Architecture of Amending Power and Basic Structure Constitutionalism." The session aimed to introduce participants to the intricacies of amending the constitution and the concept of basic structure in upholding its core principles.

The session began by exploring the constitutional provisions that grant the power to amend the Indian Constitution. This included an explanation of Articles 368, 369, and 372, which outline the process, limitations, and temporary provisions related to amendments. Prof (Dr.) Jain then elaborated on the different types of amendments. He described the amendment of fundamental rights and amendment of other provisions and the difference between the two. The session then delved into the concept of "basic structure," a principle established by the Supreme Court in the landmark case of Keshvananda Bharati v. State of Kerala (1973). This doctrine states that while the Constitution can be amended, its basic structure, which forms the foundation of India's constitutional democracy, cannot be altered.

While speaking about the Significance of Amending Power and Basic Structure, sir emphasized the critical role of amending power in adapting the Constitution to evolving societal needs while maintaining its core principles. He said that the course designed by him covers the detail discussion about the various aspects relating to Basic Structure doctrine. The session provided a valuable introduction to the students of complex interplay between amending power and basic structure in ensuring the longevity and stability of the Indian Constitution.

The compering of the programme was done by Ms. Bhargavi Mundhe, student of B.A.LL.B. IV and formal vote of thanks was given by Ms. Suvidhi Jain student of B.A.LL.B. IV year.
